The most observed decoration was the handsome birthday cake occupying the center of the table, and surrounded with white chrysanthemums.

Eight red candles, one for each year, adorned the cake, and red shaded candles in silver holders were placed about the table. From the chandeliers hung numbers of red popcorn balls, suspended by red ribbons. They red baskets filled with bonbons were at each cover, and dainty little Japanese fans, parasols and lanterns were given as favors.

Assisting the hostess in entertaining the small guests were: Mesdames William Glasgow, J. P. Williams, J. A. Happer, W. L. Tooley, George Sauer.

One of the charming social affairs of the week was the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. W. H. Austin, in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas R. Hansen, of Mexico City.

Green and white formed the attractive color scheme. A mound of white chrysanthemums occupied the center of the table and a bouquet of the same flower was also at each cover. The place cards were in the shape of birds, and of most attractive design. The green and white color tones were further accentuated in the delightful six course luncheon.

The guests were: Misses Ethel White, Ethel Walz, Carolyn Payne, Henrietta Buckler, Elizabeth Barton, Leigh White, Mand Austin, Nell Polard, Mrs. Guy Predest, Mrs. Lulu H. Montmorency, Mrs. James L. Marr, Miss Kathleen Miles.

The affair was complimentary to the young debutantes and their visiting friends.

MRS. COFFIN'S RECITAL.

A good audience filled the Christian church last night to hear the recital given by Mrs. Gertrude M. Coffin, assisted by Mrs. Frances S. Hollington and Francis Moore. Beautiful plants adorned the stage and curtains of California smilax and chrysanthemums made an artistic background.

The program was not heavy. Two pretty little songs, then "Like the Rosebud" by La Farge; "The Nightingale" and "Come Into the Garden, Love," by Mary J. Salter. Massene's Air De Salome suited the singer's voice best of all; it is a beautiful piece of tone poetry.

Mrs. Hollington's charming recitations lent excellent variety to the program. In "Sally Ann's Experience" there was a splendid character work, while in "Said the Rose," a delicate bit of poetic fancy, and the delicious "Widow Malone," which was given with piano accompaniment, Mrs. Hollington had ample opportunity to display the beauty of a splendidly modulated voice under perfect control.

Francis Moore's Chopin numbers were also received with enthusiasm. Raff's La Fleuse was played with great delicacy and purity of tone.

Eagle Pass, Texas, Nov. 22.—Untrustworthy advices received here today are to the effect that San Luis Potosi, a large city of central Mexico, has been captured by revolutionists and that the governor of that state is held a prisoner. A company of rurales sent to Cuatrecasas last night fought the insurgents. It is learned that the guide whom Madero secured at Carrizco Springs, Texas, was captured by American officers and is being brought to this city. The guide refuses to talk. Guerrero, where 100 troops were sent yesterday, is in control of Madero's men.

Thanksgiving Proclamation!

The message we present today is so important that we feel it can be dignified by calling it a "Thanksgiving Proclamation" without infringing on any of the institutions of the day.

Since the opening of our new store, one of the most complete jewelry stores in the United States, we have made a most comprehensive study of the local situation as regards mail orders and out-of-town shoppers from the immediate El Paso territory. Recently, when in New York, one of our representatives obtained access to the names of one of the large mail order houses in our line of business. He was surprised to find 110 names of people in El Paso territory who had sent orders to this one house within the past eighteen months. This particular house is only one of many mail order houses catering for trade in El Paso territory. It is our desire to offset this foreign buying as much as possible and keep the money in the Southwest--this being the basic principle of future prosperity.

Briefly stated, this is what we propose to do in connection with Holiday buying.

Railroad Fare Mail Orders Duty Free

Until Jan. 1, 1911, we will allow out-of-town customers a rebate of 2c per mile on each dollar's worth purchased here, taking the number of miles traveled as a limit for amount of rebate. We ask that you take a receipt from your railroad ticket agent.

First, we prepay express and mail charges on all orders amounting to $5.00 or more. Second, mail orders, like those selected in person, are on a money-back basis. In case you can't come to El Paso to do your Christmas buying, write to us and let us know your wants.

We realize that the Republic of Mexico, regardless of the present disturbances, offers a fertile field for El Paso business. We make a special bid for this business. We will forward goods into Mexico duty free, when order amounts to $5.00 or more.

Special Note. We ask El Paso people to join with us in building up this out-of-town business. It is a mutual proposition, when you realize that the out-of-town customer comes to El Paso, spends money with the local hotels and various other institutions, diverts money from the Eastern mail order houses and leaves it in the Southwest, where it was made. We gladly offer our services to El Paso people who receive orders from out-of-town friends. This is the beginning of an active campaign toward concentrating business in El Paso. We ask your support.

FRATERNAL ORDERS GOOD BUT NOT SOUL SAVERS

Dr. Bulgin Praises Lodges, but Condemns Some of Their Features.

Dr. Bulgin talked to the fraternal lodges of the city Tuesday night. He praised the good of the secret orders, said that they were what men needed, took the Elks and other lodges to task for having bars in their club rooms and advised them all to acknowledge and accept Christ and become members of the greatest brotherhood known, the brotherhood of the church.

Changing his tactics from those used Saturday night in his attack on Christian science, Dr. Bulgin talked with the lodge men as lodgesmen talk together. He divided his subjects into three parts: first, he discussed the evils of the lodge; second, he discussed the good of the lodge; and third, he discussed the brotherhood of the church.

"The one thing this world wants is a brotherhood that has been proved," he said. "The Elks, the Masons, the Odd Fellows and the other lodges give more to one another, to help each other over the rough places, than most church members. I want to commend such brotherhood. There is another thing you do. You give men sympathy when they need it. This world wants an idea where men will not stand alone but will have a mutual brotherhood for the benefit of man. The brotherhood of Christ can supply this want. Next to that, I commend the brotherhood of the Elks, the Masons and the other lodges."

"One of the three great evils of fraternal organizations is that too many men get inside of the human brotherhood and rest there for salvation. If they could get to heaven by means of the secret societies, why, was Jesus Christ sent to earth?"

"I hope the Lord will help the Elks to get rid of every dirty old bar where men learn to lodge. The order would then grow over the country, for it is based on the right principles. It is as much a crime to drink over a lodge bar as to go into a saloon. To pay barbills with dues is only whipping the devil around the stump."

Wednesday night Dr. Bulgin will preach a sermon especially for the Jews on "The Jews on the Island."
